Atbasca

The death of Mr. C. C. Ross leaves the constituency of Atbasca without representation in the legislature. The by-election, it is suggested, may be held in November, and in any case will occur before January. This, it is being noted, is the first occasion on which the Alberta government has been called on to defend its policies in a rural area. It is also the third vacancy in the present legislature that has been created by death.

Whatever his political complexion, it seems fairly likely the electors will choose as their representative some one who is familiar with the constituency, its resources, and its place in relation to the northland development that is just now occupying so much attention. Atbasca is part of the great hinterland which is as yet in the pioneer stage of settlement and development. Knowledge of the territory, of its capabilities, and of the methods and history of the opening up of similar areas elsewhere should be a valuable asset to a member for that constituency in the immediate future; valuable alike to the residents and to the province at large.

Getting Under Way

Building permits issued in Canada during August totalled upwards of six million dollars, and for July were well over that figure, while in August last year the aggregate was about four and a quarter millions. Increases were recorded in all provinces except Saskatchewan and Manitoba, and in some instances were large. Figures for previous months have been running well over those of last year, and the total for the year will undoubtedly show a heavy gain.

Remembering that for seven years practically no building was done in the Dominion, these figures do not suggest anything in the nature of a boom; rather that construction is slow in getting into the stride required to make up for lost time. Regrettable as this is, it is hardly strange. Though interest rates are lower than before the depression, and the Dominion is offering unprecedented assistance to builders, credit has not yet recovered from the stranglehold of deflation, and only as it recovers can the construction industry make full use of the opportunity presented by an abnormal need of new buildings and lower rent for money.

Crops are generally good throughout the Dominion this year. That will help to restore both the farmer and the consumer's willingness to lend. Next summer should find the building trades far busier than this.

Stand and Deliver!

Italians have one advantage over Canadians, if they count it an advantage, which they seemingly do. They do not have to worry about what course they should take should a general war be precipitated in Europe. They have no Italian settlements that could be a liability. They are so on Sunday at Trieste. And, according to reports, instead of shooting at him for impertinence they cheered him lustily.

The announcement was not of course news, to his hearers or to the world. They knew, and all the world knew, that Mussolini would back Hitler if it comes to a showdown, long before he said so. He is a party to the conspiracy for conquest in which the Czechoslovakian affair is only an incident; why wouldn't he stand by his partner? Didn't Hitler stand by him in the Abyssinian business, and join him to patronize, promote and protect the brigandage in Spain?

The Trieste speech is significant not because it disclosed the unknown, but because it boldly proclaimed the solidarity of the Berlin-Rome axis; and the intention of the allied dictators to carry through their program of expansion even though they plunge the continent in another "bath of blood". Europe knows now what it is in for.

Hands off Hitler, whether he wants; that is Mussolini's ultimatum to Europe.

What Is A Treaty?

Unless the political aristocrats are doing a lot of bad guessing, and doing it in unison, Mr. Hitler is demanding as the price of allowing Europe to live in peace that the Sudeten area be chopped off Czechoslovakia and annexed to Germany; and demands that Britain and France agree to the arrangement as an alternative to an immediate armed onslaught upon the little republic.

Despatches from London, Paris, Berlin and Prague confidently assert these to be the Fuehrer's terms. They may be wrong. But there is some confirmation in his own declaration on Monday, and there is no room to doubt that he means, by one method or another, to bring the Sudeten area into the Reich.

It may have no practical bearing on the outcome, since treaty obligations now mean little in Europe, but the point is to be noted that Britain and France have no shadow of moral or legal right to make themselves parties to the suggested grab. More right than two citizens of Edmonton would have to bargain away property belonging to a third.

Britain and France did not create the "moral" state, and have not been appointed executors of it. It was erected, and its charter of independence underwritten by the thirty-one countries whose delegates signed the Treaty of Versailles. Germany, France, Italy and Britain were among the signatories, and are all and sundry bound to respect and preserve its territorial integrity and sovereign rights.

It is a fair matter for discussion as to whether the Sudeten area should have been included; and if the boundaries of the state are to be changed the only body having any right to change them is the body which created it, and defined the boundaries as they stand.

This of course means nothing to Messrs. Hitler and Mussolini, who have proclaimed themselves absolved from the Treaty of Versailles by their own actions. But it ought to mean something to Britain and France. What Mr. Hitler is demanding, if this report be true, is that they let the dictators in repudiating the League, scuttling the Treaty, and proclaiming that the man with a gun may take what he wants in Europe.

Editorial Notes

If the object of Capt. Eyston and Mr. Cobb was to show that British factories turn out dependable machinery they have accomplished it with spectacular success. Not to mention the demonstration of British nerve as exemplified in themselves.

Poland is now going to expel the Jews, and wants the League of Nations to look after them. That is at least a less cruel way of going about it than Germany and Italy have adopted. If Poland would just have the decency to finance the transference of the exiles it would set a shining example of justice tempering expulsion in a part of the world where that is badly needed.

The Passing Show

By J. S. COWPER

By the time this appears in print, mobilization in Germany will be within a hundred hours of its start. Hitler, if he has not already done so, must quickly decide whether he will run the risk of another European war. A nation, lodged in its military might and weak in its moral and financial resources, is a dangerous one.

WHAT WILL THE world be like at arms for ANSWER? long. It must strike or be struck. It must liberate most of its men for the productive work of life. It is a terrible decision the German people must make, terrible for millions in Europe and most terrible for him. He must risk all he has accomplished for Germany and for himself, since he has set a precedent by the imprisonment and prosecution of former President Schuschnigg of Austria, that may cost him his own liberty and life.

There is a way out of this dilemma. Austria in Holland who speaks his language and could give him words of advice.

Czechoslovakia, formed of five districts that formerly were part of Austria-Hungary, stands like a barrier against the line of eastward march that Hitler Germany has set itself—the German "Drang nach Osten." The Czechs, British M.P., wrote in the Czechoslovakian "Pravo Lidu" recently, "it is not a question of nationalities in Czechoslovakia, but of Czechoslovakia, ironworks, coal and metal basins, grain, sugar, meat; of the Hungarian wheat and corn, of the Rumanian oil, of the Ukrainian fertile plains and of access to the Black Sea."

As long as Czechoslovakia survives, Hitler cannot have any right to march into Austria, nor can he penetrate to the wheat of the Ukraine or the oil of Rumania.

Without rendering Czechoslovakia impossible to exact process with the problem has been announced for the extension of German might in his book "Mein Kampf."

It is a terrifying prospect for a dictator who has studied free knowledge and free discussion in his own country. Cheered on by people who have availed themselves of their own inalienable right to freedom of speech with Wagnerian heroes and Nordic gods, he must be aware that the democracies of Europe stand ready to resist further invasion of national rights.

Each cavity is lined with a continuation of the same mucous membrane which lines the nose. The mucus thrown out by the membrane drains away through the cavity referred to. In a healthy condition, the sinus must be well ventilated and well drained. Ventilation is accomplished by a portion of the mucus being pulled into these various cavities. In most cases of chronic sinusitis, there is interference with good ventilation and good drainage.

Such interference may easily result from an acute inflammation of the mucous membrane as occurs in a cold in the head. In such a condition the membrane becomes congested and the swelling may close the sinus. Because of good ventilation and good drainage, the sinus will be able to drain at the very time when they need to drain the most because of the mucous membrane being inflamed.

One of the tragic features of the sinusitis is the fact that it is usually a chronic condition. It is a disease which is usually a chronic condition. It is a disease which is usually a chronic condition. It is a disease which is usually a chronic condition.

Old Country Letter

By J. E. NORCROSS

CLITHERHOPE, Lancs., Eng.—(By Mail)—For war purposes a gas may be a solid, a liquid or a vapor. So, in flat contradiction to dimly-remembered chemistry lessons, the long war has been assured by the smart young police constable who had been told off to teach us how to be air raid wardens.

For we are doing here what is being done all over the country, learning to prepare for the hour when, with all our nerves, we are cruising around the North Sea.

It is difficult to realize that it is not all a game of make-believe. One can't get it into one's mind unless one has seen it.

It is not all a game of make-believe. One can't get it into one's mind unless one has seen it.

Smart Shifred Dress Of Beautiful Slim Lines

By ALICIA HART

Her that is swept upward and held high atop your head as grand mother's was ought to be as glossy and gleamingly healthy as grandmother kept hers. There are no new ways about it—drying, dust, straggling locks just do not lend themselves to the newest hair styles.

Fortunately, having shiny, lovely hair does not depend on how much money you have to spend on scalp treatments. Rather, it depends on the amount of time you spend using hair brush each and every night. This is as true today as it was years and years ago when grandmother was the belle of the ball. She gave her hair one hundred licks with a good brush every night. And so must you. That is, if you want to have locks as lovely as hers.

Remember to hold the brush lightly in your hand and to brush upward and away from the scalp. This method cleans and polishes every hair, stimulates the scalp and, in addition, helps to train the hair to stay glossy. Furthermore, the brushing will not hurt a good thing.

Nature! If you have a bad case of dandruff or of persistent brushing, you must select a shampoo of an excessively oily condition, by all means use a scalp specialist and arrange for treatment.

Misdirected Energy Responsible For Youth Wrongs

GUIDANCE TO HELP PREVENT DELINQUENCY

T. R. Blaine, of Child Welfare Branch, Addresses I.O.O.F. Lodge

Misdirected energy and the lack of proper recreational and vocational guidance, not an inherent defect, but a bad, are causes of most cases of juvenile delinquency, declared T. R. Blaine, superintendent of child welfare for Alberta, in an address delivered at the 103rd Oddfellows hall Monday evening.

Blaine's speech was the first of a series of five to be given this winter under the sponsorship of the Independent Order of Oddfellows, Natus Lodge No. 47.

Although the percentage of juvenile delinquency cases in the province is decreasing and some of the room for clubs and organizations of all ages to step in and take the place of the child welfare department in the work of selling upward boys and girls, along the path that leads to good citizenship.

HOPE TRAINING

Superintendent Blaine attempts to give every delinquent boy on a farm so that they may enjoy every opportunity to secure some training and become engaged in useful and constructive work.

He stressed the importance of hope throughout the province are particularly anxious to cooperate with the welfare branch police in the work of the province, but he said that every child who is not and earnestly try to make good, the speaker declared.

In only extreme cases are boys sent to a reform school. Considering the fact that Alberta has no reform school and also the fact that the department believes sending boys out of the province, his theory of "home training" is borne out very favorably, Sup. Blaine said.

Explaining the higher rate of juvenile delinquency in cities over that of smaller communities, Mr. Blaine stated that the boys and girls of urban centers are more plentifully for entering sporting activities. Playgrounds and public swimming pools in Edmonton have worked marvels in cutting down the delinquency rate, but the speaker said.

CO-OPERATION

In conclusion, Mr. Blaine expressed his appreciation of the fine help and consideration both from child welfare and from the police department, and Edmonton's chief of police, Mr. J. H. Crawford, in a judgment handed down Tuesday.

Judge Crawford dismissed the case of the ground on which the city was seeking to have the question of the validity of Constable Kirsch's election tried.

Previously Stephen Bullock, defeated candidate, had sought the voiding of the election on the grounds of election irregularities. Similar grounds were advanced in the present action.

S. Bruce Smith acted for Mr. Kirsch, and E. E. Cross for Mr. Bullock.

1939 Plymouth Has Ultra-Modern Style As Cars Previewed

J. C. McGuire, Sales Manager for Division, Here For Showing

As an important stimulus in new car sales, Chrysler-Plymouth has completely re-styled next year's automobiles which will give the Plymouth line a new, sweeping, aerodynamic line that streamlines the car into a modern airliner, stated J. C. McGuire, sales manager of Chrysler Corporation of Canada, who is in the city for a pre-showing of the 1939 Plymouth to northern Alberta dealers.

The biggest Plymouth ever built, with a larger wheelbase of 114 inches is being turned out in 1939, and spectacular improvements in styling, mechanical and electrical features are other achievements of this company for 1939.

Interiors in all models set a new standard in luxury and refinement to upholstery, instrument panels, hardware and trim for the low-priced field.

New coil springs of Amsco steel give a smoother ride, while new shock absorbers, engine torque and give new high-torque engine performance, giving more power and faster getaway, new hand-control gear shift, new steering column and an outstanding safety device—a safety signal speedometer with automatic traffic light right under the driver's eyes, are other notable changes for next year.

UNUSUAL BEAUTY
Plymouth's new design allows unusual beauty in the design, full balance and proportion which are evident at a glance, as well as more massive size.

A bigger, more powerful-looking hood and front end, a new grille of pointed surface that goes 10 inches farther forward as it curves down to the new V-type windshield adds 10 inches to body length above the body center.

Over-all length of the car is now 102 inches, while the wheelbase is now 114 inches, wheelbase is two inches longer than last year.

HEADLIGHTS
Fenders are broader and more massive in every respect. The headlights are set back into the forward sweep of the front fenders, and have lenses shaped like an oblong shield, and are also built this year, being streamlined into the extended rear-fender skirt.

This year all instruments and controls are centered directly in front of the driver, with this front dominated by Plymouth's new design, a new instrument speedometer that automatically flashes a warning from three different driving zones.

Plymouth's interiors for 1939 are new in detail and proportion of passengers in case of sudden stops. Besides the smooth and rounded instrument board, all inside door handles and window controls curve safely back out of the way. The back of the front seat is thickly padded and rolled at the top for the benefit of children and rear seat passengers. Windshield rubber buffers are new. For safer operation of clutch and brake pedals, there is a special foot rest in the dash.

ADJUSTABLE SEAT
To obtain the full benefit of the improved vision through the new windshield, the front seat adjustment now allows a full five inches forward-slant travel to suit the length of individual drivers. The seat moves on roller runners so that it raises as it is moved forward, automatically adjusting the eye level for drivers of any height.

For dried-in-the-wind motorist fans who like to keep what goes on under the hood, the 1939 Plymouth promises a special treat. This year's list of engineering improvements marks a banner season, and should win new laurels for the men who pioneered "Floating Power" and hydraulic brakes.

The 1939 Plymouth is stronger than ever—20 per cent more rigid, in fact, is the new car frame that forms the structural foundation for the 1939 bigger car. It is now cradled by a heavier front cross member and a sturdier front engine support at the rear.

EXTRA COMFORT
Besides the innovations for 1939, Plymouth retains the extra comfort and fine-car features it pioneered in the low-price field. Important among them are the plane-type, low-pressure shock absorbers, further improved in synchronism with the other front action brought about by the new suspension. Also featured are the month's "rubber pillow" body mountings, the live rubber cushions that absorb road rumbles and vibrations before they reach the body structure.

The complete Plymouth line for 1939 includes six Custom, eight Deluxe and five Standard models in 104-inch wheel base with 60-horsepower engine of "L" head design.

NEW PLANT
Business during 1938 was so promising and indicating that Chrysler-Plymouth for 1939 so great that the Chrysler-Plymouth division found it necessary to construct new plant costing between $3,000,000 and $4,000,000, stated Mr. McGuire, and this are now being set up in order to purchase an additional million dollars worth of property in the division, and Howard Mays are in charge of the preview showing.

COBB PREDICTS SPEED RECORD OF 400 M. P. H.

DETROIT, Sept. 20—A 400-mile-an-hour speed record within four years is predicted by John Cobb, English sportsman whose own 300-M.P.H. record lasted only 10 days.

"It's all a matter of engineering," Cobb, who expressed confidence in the ability of his countrymen to drive his automobile 370 miles an hour, told the 257.4 established by Capt. George Eyston.

Canadian Painter Goes To Gotham
TORONTO, Sept. 20—Arthur Lamer, noted Canadian painter and since 1928 educational director of the art gallery of Toronto, left last night for New York to become principal of the fine arts at Teachers College, Columbia University.

Lamer has given considerable thought to increased employment within the corporation.

Business during 1938 has been exceptionally good, he continued, with the Chrysler-Plymouth division 92 per cent of the 1937 volume of business which is a remarkable showing considering the business done by the automobile trade generally.

Mr. McGuire stated that business prospects for 1939 are the brightest in recent history of the corporation, with a large volume of business from the western provinces indicating the business outlook throughout Canada is remarkably even.

SALES POLICY
Tuesday's series of meetings were held at which the 1938 sales policy of the corporation were outlined to dealers and agents in northern Alberta.

Accompanying Mr. McGuire on the trip are H. J. Moore, service manager, Windsor; A. R. Mery, sales manager, Chrysler-Plymouth, Fargo, Regina; F. J. Hunt, special sales manager, 277, Whitehall, Winnipeg; and C. P. Whitlock, divisional manager, Calgary.

D. Bennett, fleet sales division, Windsor, and L. Woolley, division representative, Calgary.

The new models were viewed by agents and dealers Tuesday and will be followed by a public preview at Keno's, garage, 110 street, Tuesday evening and Wednesday.

CELEBRATES FOR NEW BABY; GETS 7 DAYS IN JAIL

HANNA, Alta., Sept. 20—Pioneer John, Manitoba (Blacksmith), won't see the new baby at his home for seven days.

Celebrating the arrival of an infant, John Campbell, 40, of Hanna, celebrated his birthday by driving a car while intoxicated. The sentence was seven days in jail.

P.E.I. PREMIER WOULD AWAIT ROWELL DATA

Aberhart Conference Plan Should Be Postponed In Belief

CHARLOTTETOWN, P. E. I., Sept. 20—The interpretive conference suggested by Premier Aberhart of Alberta should be deferred until data gathered by the Rowell commission on inter-provincial relations is available. This was the opinion of the Prince Edward Island said Monday.

John Campbell said he had received a copy of the letter Premier Aberhart addressed to provincial government heads. "I think any conference of that kind should wait until the Rowell commission has gathered the data of all available sources," he said.

"I don't see any reason why the Dominion should be excluded," he added, in reference to Premier Aberhart's suggestion the provinces discuss inter-provincial relations without any Dominion government representatives present.

"Beeg" Joe To Hog-Tie Ponies For Air Ride

GOGAMA, Ont., Sept. 20—"Beeg" Joe LaFramme, the hunky French-Canadian bushman who drove himself into newspaper headlines by driving a team of wild ponies down Broadway, is in the news again. Joe is going to "hog-tie" a couple of stout ponies for an aerial "piggy back" ride on Ontario's gold-mining country.

Joe, they say, is the only man in Gogama's town to do the job of shaking the 700-pound animals so they won't kick a hoof or two through the sides of the Austin Airway plane that will take them to Ontario's Archie Burton's claims near Opeewake, just in Opeewake township, scene of Ontario's latest major gold discovery.

Burton will use the ponies on his claim to haul wood during winter exploration and to move his diamond drill.

Pilot Jimmie Bell will fly the machine.

MUNICH, CRADLE OF NAZISM, NOW HOPES FOR PEACE

MUNICH, Germany, Sept. 20—This cradle of Nazism and favorite city of Chancellor Hitler is hoping today that peace will emerge from Hitler's next meeting with Prime Minister Chamberlain.

The two are expected to meet at Godesberg on the Rhine, probably tomorrow, to continue their deliberations on the fate of Czechoslovakia, begun last Thursday at Berthelsdorf.

Munich, briefly host to Mr. Chamberlain on his way to the historic Benetgaden conference, is proud but does not want war and "his feeling of her citizens likely to be that of a great majority of the people of Germany."

But the people of Munich will tell you that they will fight, if the flag calls.

ONTARIO WIDE PROBE LIKELY MENTAL HOMES

Lawyer's Chrgs Leads To Greater Commission Investigation

LONDON, Sept. 20—John R. Green, St. Thomas lawyer, whose complaint about wrongful detention led to a province-wide investigation into Ontario's mental hospitals, failed to take the witness stand as scheduled when the Royal Commission resumed sittings Monday.

Instead, commission counsel Eric Sils called three men and three women who knew Green, in an attempt to show the lawyer was not, to their knowledge, a liquor drinker and showed no abnormality.

HELD THREE YEARS
Headed by Chief Justice G. R. Magone of the Attorney-General's department, the commission is dealing specifically with the complaint he was held almost three years in the mental hospital here after being committed for 60 days for observation as an alcoholic. The commission also is to make a general survey of conditions in the mental institutions of the province.

Evidence indicated Green had been "harassed out" by the hospital staff. At least one private home near the institution, as is a general practice, had been visited by the hospital staff. Bradley last Aug. 7, according to Bradley's evidence and was not located by hospital attendants until the following night.

Bradley said he was anxious about Green's absence and when asked why, he replied: "He often talked to me privately about how he was going to get Dr. Stevenson (superintendent) and show this place (the hospital) up." (Dr. G. H. Stevenson has been succeeded by Dr. J. H. Macdonald, inquiry.)

Bradley said he never saw evidence of Green's being intoxicated. He had seen him drunk, but he had no evidence, indicating Green might be a drinker.

Mr. Bradley said he had received a complaint about Green arriving in an automobile and being taken to the city limits and he was ordered to stay in at nights after that. It was learned Green had been asked to attend the probe today.

MUNICH, CRADLE OF NAZISM, NOW HOPES FOR PEACE

MUNICH, Germany, Sept. 20—This cradle of Nazism and favorite city of Chancellor Hitler is hoping today that peace will emerge from Hitler's next meeting with Prime Minister Chamberlain.

The two are expected to meet at Godesberg on the Rhine, probably tomorrow, to continue their deliberations on the fate of Czechoslovakia, begun last Thursday at Berthelsdorf.

Kiwanis Chief Warns Against Reds, Fascists

KINGSTON, Ont., Sept. 20—H. Glenn Hatfield of Kingston City, Ont., international president of Kiwanis, told the 20th annual Ontario-Quebec-Maritime Kiwanis district convention Monday: "In my country we are being overrun by Communists and Fascists and they are teaching the theory of those governments which are a menace to democracy. This danger is also yours. If we were to be brought into a conflict with any other nation or nations, a large number of those would become spies."

Funds Needed To Stamp Out Th.
RIVER GLADE, N.B., Sept. 20—"Provided the necessary funds are available," tuberculosis can be stamped out, not only in New Brunswick but throughout Canada. Premier Dwyer declared Monday at the official opening of a new wing in the Jordan Memorial Sanatorium.

He and the other members of the New Brunswick government were invited to the luncheon at the white plaque was one of national scope and there was a message of responsibility of the federal government, stated Mr. Dwyer.
